

Moonlight Kisses the Sea

In 1983, a young Virginian woman traveled to Cozumel to dive the pristine coral reefs off its shores; a young Mayan man was working diligently at her hotel, the El Presidente, auditing the books; their history is a romantic story that seems to have no end. He spoke few words of English; she no Spanish; and it was love at first sight.

Before she knew it, he returned to Mexico City; she never got to dive, her toes hardly touched the gorgeous turquoise sea, and she flew off to the land of the Aztecs to find her Mayan treasure -- who was eagerly waiting for her at the airport, with a gorgeous bouquet of red roses!

Their romance continued in Mexico atop the magnificent Aztec pyramids and later through the French Wine Valleys and beyond. And now, it has brought them back to their Mayan paradise and Ajua (ah-who-ah).

This is the essence of Brenda and Jorge Alfaro's story, which continues nightly in Ajua's beautiful starlit garden under the Caribbean sky. We hope you enjoy the romance of Ajua which began with their acquisition in 2001 and continues to evolve daily with five star dining and authentic Mayan cuisine.

Jorge and Brenda's Mayan promise to you is a night to savor -- with enticing flavors; entertaining waiters; sensual Latin jazz; fantastic tropical drinks and cold beer, the best Chef and Sous Chefs in Playa; and their commitment to the highest quality of fresh seafood, steaks, and ingredients available.
